She graduated as a prep student from St. Francis Academy and for a short interim sought employment in a non-secretarian hospital. While she found the work satisfying her desire to enter a religious life remained with her. It was at this time that she entered the community.

Sister Mary John's first and only assignment was at Good Samaritan Hospital, from 1946 until 1980. Here she first served as a nurse aide, and after formal training, became a registered nurse and engaged in a variety of services to the sick. She remained in this service until her death on June 10, 1980.
